Conference themes

The 5th World Conference on Research Integrity will be organized around the interlinked themes of transparency and accountability, building on the premise that the honesty and reliability of research are best served by openly sharing all aspects of research and by taking personal responsibility for it.

The conference program will explore the challenges of promoting transparency and accountability and the consequences of the failure to do so, with the overall goal of developing an evidence-based agenda for addressing the various lapses of integrity that seem to have become an endemic problem in research today. We are looking forward to welcoming researchers, institutional leaders, research administrators, funders, publishers and others to Amsterdam in May 2017 to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the World Conferences on Research Integrity.

Program structure

The 5th WCRI will feature a series of keynote speakers and be organized around plenary and concurrent sessions exploring conference themes and related topics. In keeping with past conferences, there will be ample opportunities for interaction between participants, including during all sessions, pre-conference workshops and satellite symposia. There will also be interactive poster sessions and exhibitor space as well as time for informal contact during breaks and the social events.

Envisioned output

The World Conferences on Research Integrity have produced two consensus documents: the Singapore Statement on Research Integrity and the Montreal Statement on Research Integrity in Cross-Boundary Research Collaborations. One goal of 5th WCRI will be to develop the Amsterdam Agenda for Promoting Transparency and Accountability. This is initially envisioned as an action-oriented one-page statement drawing attention to the urgent need to fight questionable research practices. Drafts will be made available before the conference and there will be ample opportunity for discussion and debate with a view to improve and focus the final document.

Support options

- To make the 5th WCRI possible and affordable for professionals from a wide range of countries and organizations generous support is essential.
- The 5th WCRI is welcoming contributions from companies and organizations that have a demonstrated interest in promoting research integrity and whose values are consistent with the values of the World Conferences on Research Integrity. The conference organizers reserve the right to make decisions about appropriate contributors and to refuse companies or organizations that do not match the values behind and the theme of the conference.
- Exhibitors will have no influence on the content of the program.
- The organizers also welcome offers for unconditional sponsoring and for contributions earmarked for travel grants. Furthermore, financial support for parts of the social program, like the welcome reception and the conference dinner, are most welcome. For this we refer to the sponsor brochure.
